

How do I transfer ownership of an Enphase system

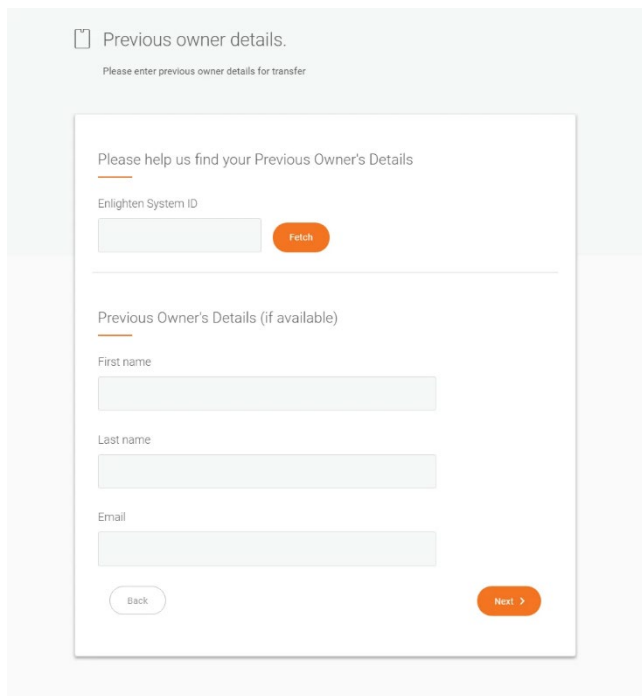

Follow these steps to transfer ownership of an Enphase system.

If you have recently purchased a home or building with an Enphase system and would like to take ownership of the system, please click on this link to begin the ownership transfer process. You will be prompted to create an Enphase App account if you don't already have one. (When prompted to create your account, select Other in the New User Registration section).

Post-Registration Transfer of Home Ownership (€149).

Transferring home ownership transfers the product warranty to you and gives you access to the system account in Enphase App, the software that monitors the production and health of the system. The inspection report, on the other hand, provides insight into the health of your installed solar energy system and highlights issues that may require attention.

To request continuation of coverage, please complete the transaction within 30 days of the completion of the change of ownership.
